WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH AT HOME IN PRICEDALE

Body Discovered by Woman Whose Husband Met Death in Much the Same Way.

WOODWORK CAUGHT FIRE

Tried to Come Down Stairs After Her Clothing Had Become Ignited.

When Mrs. Walter Sinsley of Pricedale went to the home of Mrs. David Muri, at 8 o'clock on Saturday evening, she opened the door to find the ghastly charred remains of Mrs. Muri lying at the foot of the stairs leading to the up-stairs part of the house. How long the body had laid there is not known, but apparently it had not been long.

The woodwork along the stairway was burned somewhat and there was still a smouldering fire there when Mrs. Sinsley went in. Apparently Mrs. Muri had been standing in front of an open fire in the room upstairs when her clothing ignited. She had evidently tried to get downstairs, that she mght be able to extinguish the flames, but was unable to do so, and fell lifeless at the bottom of the stairs.

At the time of the accident there was no one in the house except Mrs. Muri. She has a family of grown up children, and her husband is a fire boss at Somers No. 2 mine at Pricedale.

Five months ago in the same house Mrs. Sinsley's husband was burned to death in much the same manner. The house is owned by Mrs. Sinsley.

WELSH MINISTER TELLS OF REVIVAL

Lecture at Baptist Church of Remarkable Experience in Wales.

The history of the great Welsh revival of 1905, '06 and '07 was told for the first time in Charleroi by one of the workers, at the First Baptist church last night, when Rev. Clifford Joshua, of Cardiffe, Wales lectured. The revival was started in a small prayer meeting by Rev. Seth Joshua, an uncle of the man who spoke here last night, and before it had ended there had been about 100,000 conversions.

The story of the revival as told last night by Rev. Joshua was remarkably impressive. He told of how Wales was set on fire by the wonderful wave of religion, and of how the places of amusement had to close down because of the lack of people to patronize them, while the churches were filled nearly all the time. Rev. Joshua preached in his home town of Cardiffe, and in other places. The revival started in a town not far distant from his home.

Convicted of Involuntary Manslaughter and is Today Sentenced.

Constable John oung of Union township was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter in court Saturday for shooting and killing Andy Gashes, a foreigner at Huston Run last September. Young claims he went to make an arrest at the place, which was alleged to be a disorderly house, and that he shot in self-defense. TOTARO IS SENTENCED

Charleroi Man Must go to Workhouse for Eight Months.

He was directed to pay the costs, a fine of $1 and to undergo imprisonment in the work house for a period of eight months. The court said it was inclined to believe the verdict was right. The judge informed the defendant that he might consider himself lucky in not being convicted of the more serious charge, for had he been he might have been imprisoned for 15 year.

SOME CANDIDATES WORRY ABOUT THEIR COMPETITORS

Do Your Best, You May Win Competitive Ballot by One Subscription---Count on That Auto for Easter.

KEEP BUSY ON BEST OFFER OF CONTEST

Some of the candidates are worrying over what their competitors are doing in the way of securing votes. The contest manager cannot tell for he does not know; here, however, is a pertinent question. Dont' you think that your competitors are worrying equally as much over what you may have? The prizes are just as alluring to them and naturally every candidate is exerting themselves to be numbered among the winners. Do net be deceived by the apparently small vote of those behind you. Keep hustling and amass for yourself sufficient votes to be prepared for any surprise that may be sprung by some "dark horse."

How are you doing this afternoon?

Are you advancing or slipping to the rear in this great race?

Next week may start with a rush.

How will you fare?

With a gain in your standing?

Fine.

Every one will get votes from now on.

And everybody needs them.

For it's votes that win, and you can win if you have votes enough:

The present leaders may be the tail-enders when the great contest closes.

Your opponent, who may now stand away down in the lst, may have a fine pile of votes laid away. There are surprises in every contest, and there certainly will be surprises in this one. There is one candidate, a hustler, too, who has cast only five voting certificates; so be on the outlook and do not let some "dark horse" surprise you in the end.

Those forty thousand extra.

How many of the forty thousand extra ballots are you working for?

You are not going to stop with one, two or three are you?

And then those three competitive ballots, they are going to be awarded to the three turning in the most cash during this period ending Saturday night, Feb. 26, at 10 p. m. You want to get in all you possibly can, you may be fortunate enough to win the first capital ballot, good for one hundred thousand votes by one single subscription, or it may be your misfortune to lose by that one subscription that you could easily secured if you would have looked for it.

POSITIVELY THE BEST

Five days to get in on the BEST OFFER of the conest, forty thousand extra with every $25 turned in. Three competitive ballots, two offers in one.

They are all working this week.

They all know it pays to work while the best bonus vote offer is on.

Candidates in every district are doing their best to be in first place at the end of this period. WHO'LL WIN THE ONE HUNDRED EXTRA?

The one that works every day and every day, only pausing to attend to the little duties of eating and sleeping, will be the one who will ride in a swell new auto Easter.

Can you afford to work five weeks for $500.00? Most folks can.

PRESIDENT J. D. MOFFATT OCCUPIES LOCAL PULPIT SUNDAY AT TWO SERVICES

Dr. James D. Moffat, president of Washington and Jefferson college, preached two strong sermons at the Washington Avenue Presbyterian chuch Sunday, morning and evening. The morning sermon was on the text, "For He Gave His Only Begotten Son That Whosever Believeth on Him Should Not Perish, But Have Everlasting Life," following on the thought of what has been done for mankind in a spiritual way, and pointing out what humamty owes in return, from gratitude. In the evening his sermon was more along civic lines, his principal thought being of how the proper recognition of God would lead one into right relations with his fellow men.

At the close of each services pledges were taken for the building fund, the entire amount subscribed aggregating about $240,05.

MINE EXAMINATIONS WILL BE HELD IN CHARLEROI

Mine Inspector Cunningham Announces Test For Mine Foreman.

WILL BE APRIL 5, 6, AND 7

Many Fire Bosses Needed in This District---Westmoreland County Makes Request.

Mine Inspector F. W. Cunningham for the Twenty-first bituminous district has made an announcement of an examination for mine foreman's certificates, to be held in the Charleroi Savings and Trust company hall, on April 5, 6 and 7 The examinations will be conducted by Mr. Cunningham, Superintendent Harry C. Drum of Vesta No. 4 and Peter Crockett of Dunlevy, one of the most prominent mine foremen of this vicinity. Examinations for fire bosses will be held on April 8.

There are a number of mine foremen and fire bosses needed in the mines of the Twenty-first district, the demand for fire bosses being especially large. Some are needed in Westmoreland county, and Mine Inspector Cunningham has been requested to send some there, but has been unable to supply the demand. There are some qualified about Fayette City who are working on machines and do not care to leave this employment which affords better pay. There are some boozers employed at the present time who must go.

In an interview Mine Inspector Cunningham spoke of the good work that is being done by the Y. M. C. A. mining classes. Many foreigners are being prepared for positions as mine foreman and fire bosses.

The courts are now supporting locally the mine inspectors. When the inspectors began to strictly enforce the laws in Western Pennsylvania, the courts did not stand by them, but now mining offenders are given sentences in accordance with the enormity of their offense when brought before the tribunal. Washington county courts have been lending particularly good support.

Four Clubs Will Compose West Virginia Circuit in Newly Organized League.

The Pennsylvania and West Virginia league is no more. It was announced at Fairmont Saturday that the managers had decided to dissolve the union, Connellsville and Uniontown are out of it. It is said that Connellsville will play independent ball and is to be a member of an association that is to be formed in Western Pennsylvania.

Fairmont, Mannington, Grafton and Clarksburg will make up a four club union and be known as the West Virginia league.

VAUDEVILLE AT COYLE

Announcement is Made of Acts That Are to Appear First Week.

When the Coyle Theatre throws its doors open Monday afternoon, February 28, an epoch will have been marked in local theatricals as Charleroians will have their first opportunity of seeing really high class Independent vaudeville at popular prices. In fact it will be the first appearance of Independent vaudeville at any price and local interest is naturally at high mark.

When the announcement was first made that the Coyle Theatre was to be given over to the Independent forces very little credence was placed in it, but it now seems that the rumor has become an assured fact. William L. Batchelor, one of the traveling managers of the Polack circuit is expected here today to confer with and assist Ray Rush, the new lesee in the opening.

The opening bill includes some of the best known names in vaudeville and every assurance is given that the programs to follow will be of the same grade of excellance.

The Omega Trio, who are announced to head the opening bill are conceededly one of the laughing hits of vaudeville. The vehicle used by this well known act is a musical comedy sketch entitled 'Sweetsy's Finish" and the incidents leading up to the "finish" are said to be ludicorously funny. The Great Batelles, another high class act scheduled for the opening week, were recently imported by the Independants. The equilibristic work done by this team is said to eclipse anything ever attempted before. Harry Meridith Mason, the musical comedian who enjoyed the distinction of having two separate and distinct solo singing voices, will also appear the first half of the week as will also Miss Blanche Meade, who will introduce her celebrated collie dog Sparkle.

The program announced for the last half of the week is equally pretentious and includes the York-Herbert Trio, one of the most versatile trios of vaudevillians on the American stage; Austin Wash, known all over the world as the original rubber neck man, he having appeared in every civilized country on the face of the globe. Austin Walsh is recommended as a sure cure for the blues; Pearl Evans, the well known operatic star and the LaRose Brothers, grotesque trick house comedians, are also announced. Last but by no means least, comes the announcement that Arthur and Jeanette, the pantomimic pair, will also appear the opening week. The international reputation of this great act is so well known that encomiums would be superfluous. Sufficient to say that nothing has ever been seen in a local theatre to approach the remarkable performance of this talented pair.

If the opening bills can be taken as a criterion Charleroians will have an opportunity of witnessing two of the best vaudeville programs ever offered to local amusement goers.

The announced policy of the new management is strictly high class vaudeville at the popular price of ten cents with an entire change of bill every Monday and Thursday beginning Monday matinee, February 28. A special souvenir matinee for the ladies and children will be given every Saturday afternoon at 2:30. Three performances will be given daily, 2:30, 7:30 and 9 p. m.

Mrs. John Jenkins and son are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Conway of Seventh street.

No Bogies.

We are hearing much these days of business and capital being frightened over President Taft's policies, which are said to exercise a deterrent effect. These reports emenate for the most part from Wall Street, the great gambling centre of the United States. President Taft's ideas on some of the principles advocated by him may be summarized as follows:

TRUSTS—If the law is not consistent with present business methods, business meth ds must be made consistent with the law.

TARIFF—The Payne-Aldrich bill is a downward revision on necessities and the best tariff measure ever enacted in this country.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS—Such banks can be constutionally established. If the Republican party does not accomplish this it must face charges of bad faith.

FEDERAL INCORPORATION—Save interstate business from State harassment and protect public through unified Federal control.

RAILROADS—Prevent watering of securities and empower commission to regulate rates for benefit of public.

INJUNCTIONS--Require that in Federal court injunction shall not be issued without full notice and hearing unless to prevent irreparable injury and in such case to extend only five days before hearing.

CONSERVATION—Re-classify public lands accoring to their greatest utility and vest in the Executive power to dispose of coal, phosphate, oil and mineral lands and water power sites to prevent their monopoly by syndicates.

It is perhaps the enforcement of the trust laws and the postal savings bank act on which the financial interests balk. The trusts do not want to obey the law and be honest, and the banking interests do not want the people to have access to any savings institutions except what they may dictate themselves. If these policies hamper and "scare" business, the interests that are founded on such principles had better cease to do business.

A Divorce Remedy.

According to newspaper dispatches a recent action by a West Virginia judge will have a salutary effect on the divorce evil that is spreading with such startling rapidity over all the country. In granting a large number of divorces before his ccurt this judge stipulated in each that neither of the parties were to re-marry. This is said to have caused great consternation, as an "affinity" on one side or the other was the cause of most of the actions being brought.

It is believed that if all the courts would adopt this policy that there would be as perceptible a falling off in the number of divorces as there is in the gain. To prevent re-marriage is to take all the "ginger" out of a divorce, and it would become as undesirable as a horse race without pool selling. Millionaries and stage beauties would then have to stick to the ones of their first choice, for, as the illustrious Dr. Johnson aptly remarks, "while marriage may have many pains, celibacy or single blessedness has no pleasures." The remedy for the divorce evil is in the hands of the courts.

First Principles.

With a view of sharpening and developing the intellectual faculties of his pupils, Superintendent Pentz has instituted a literary society in the sixth and seventh grades of the borough schools. This is the old-time idea of literary and oratorical training, and before the days of the Chautauqua plan and correspondence schools, figured widely among the country school districts. It was here that the budding genius of many eminent American men and women was developed, and hopes and aspirations stirred that were ever an incentive in after life.

In these strenuous commercial times intellectual recreation has been neglected. It is seldom now that groups of congenial persons meet in the indusrtial communities for the pure enjoyment and interchange of each other's conversation and ideas, such as used to be the case in the New England centers of education. In these centers when intellectual men and women met regularly to read and discuss the political, scientific, religious and literary topics of the age, the intellectual development of the whole world was stimulated and promoted, as was reflected in the after productions of the persons present at these interchanges of thought. Many of these gatherings had their inception in the school and college literary fraternities, and the public school societies can be conducted and developed in the same direction. In view of the numerous gatherings for ephemeral amusements and entertainments Prof. Pentz's literary society is of vital importance. It should meet with the hearty approval and encouragement of every school patron. It is a return to first principles in intellectual development.

There are figures to prove that there had been a heavy crop increase. That either means that the trusts will corner the market next year or food stuffs will be cheaper.

People make a hobby of defending Taft in his various views now, but wait until he is about out of office, and not to again be a nominee. Then he will not have an idea on anything worth mentioning.

THE DOCTOR'S QUESTION

Some Advice Against Harsh Purgatives and Physics.

A doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is, "Are your bowels regular?" He knows that 98 per cent of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver. This condition poisons the system, the waste matter and causes accumulation of gases which must be removed through the bowels before health can be restored.

Salts, ordinary pills and cathartics may be truly likened to dynamite. Through their harsh, irritating action they force a passage through the bowels, causing pain and damage to the delicate intestinal structure which weakens the whole system and at best any produces temporary relief. The repeated use of such treatments causes chronic irritation of the stomach and bowels, dries and hardens their tissues, deadens their nerves, stiffens their muscles and generally brings about an injurious habit which sometimes has almost, if not fatal results.

We have a pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of its great curative value that we promise to return the purchaser's money in every case where it fails to produce entire satisfaction. This remedy is called Rexall Orderlies. We urge you to try them at our entire risk.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy, they act quietly and have a soothing strengthening, healing, regulative influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, gripe, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoea or other annoying effects and they may be taken at any time without inconvenience.

Rexall Orderlies overcome the drugging habit and safely remedy constipation and associate ailments, whether acute or chronic, except in surgical cases. They are especially good for children, weak persons or old folks. Price, 36 tablets 25 cents and 12 tablets 10 cents. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Charleroi only at our store—The Rexall Store. John W. Carroll.

Brown was near the top step of the ladder adjusting a flag, when the ladder skidded, precipitating him to the floor. He was taken to the office of Dr. J. THE RUSSIAN MODEL

By EDMOND COMPTON.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

Spencer Fiske at twenty-one, though the possessor of a fortune, did not propose to lead an idle life. He laid out a European trip for himself to last one year, at the end of which time he would return, spend three years in the study of the law, after which he would practice the profession for the rest of the period allotted him on earth The most practical part of his scheme was to marry at the time he began his work. He believed in marriage as necessary to a complete life and that it should be entered upon with one's judgment well in hand—not dazed by the glamour of the senses.

Six months after forming his plan he found himself one summer morning in St. Petersburg dawdling through a picture gallery, when he came upon a painting the subject of which was a village festival in Russian rural life. The central figure was a girl apparently about fifteen, with beautiful blue eyes, light hair and a delicious smile on two lips nestling between dimples.

Fiske gazed long on the scene, taking it in as a whole and in part, his eyes always returning to the central figure. He went to other rooms, but returned before leaving the gallery to gaze upon the laughing face of innocence. Nor was this all; he returned every day for a week—sometimes twice a day, each time to gaze upon the face that charmed him. One day while thus engaged a man stepped up to him and said in French:

"You seem pleased with my work."

"Your work?"

"Yes; I painted it."

"Where did you find your model for the central figure?"

"In Siberia. I am a traveler as well as painter. I found her in a small village. She is the daughter of a peasant."

A week later Fiske was on a train bound for Siberia. A desire to see the original of the festival scene had taken possession of him, and he saw no reason why it should not be gratified Reaching the village, he sought the girl and found her in a dooryard spinning. She had grown a year older than when the picture was painted, with a slight budding of her beauty Fiske knew only a few phrases of Russian, but they sufficed to convey to her the information that he had seen her face on canvas and had come to view the original.

However practical a young man may be, there is one thing about which he is usually stupidly impractical—a young girl's heart. Fiske was insensible to the effect his statement was likely to produce. He was even more stupid than this. He did not know that he had fallen in love with a pretty face. But he found it out all on a sudden, for the girl told him that he had arrived in time to see her married. There was in this wireless message something like the clutching of cold fingers about his heart. With his lips he told her that he was fortunate; with his eyes he told her that he had met with a sudden disappointment. Then she told him that the match had been arranged by her parents.

A few days later he went to view the ceremony. He found the bride in a tent surrounded by her girl friends. On asking where was the groom he was told that he would soon appear, and it was further explained that as soon as the bride saw him she would run away. The groom would follow and must catch her before he could be permitted to marry her. This was the custom in that part of Siberia.

Presently a young man was seen approaching. The girls told the bride that the groom was coming and, leaving the tent, she ran like a fawn to elude him. The man found himself tripped and balked at every turn. Fiske in order to get a better view went up on to a rise in the ground. The girl was giving her intended mate a hard run. The American looked on with a wildly throbbing pulse, and once when the lover was about to grasp the prize his heart stood still. With a quick turn she avoided her pursuer and came running toward the point where Fiske was standing. As she passed him she looked at him. What her eyes said no one except the two knew, but they must have said something of importance, for Fiske gave a quick turn advanced a few steps, stopped, then suddenly started after the beautiful fugitive.

There was a clamor among the lookers-on, but the American did not hear it. The groom, seeing another chasing his bride, stopped a moment in wonder then went on as if a fury was spurring him. The girl looked back and, seeing herself doubly pursued, sped on as if on the wings of the wind. One would have thought she sought to elude them both. Fiske, being the fresher of the two, soon gained. Then when the girl saw that he led she lagged and in a few minutes more dropped into his arms.

Thus it was that Spencer Fiske, who had laid out a life plan in which marriage was to be entered upon with circumspection, found himself the possessor of a Russian peasant girl whom he had caught in a race with the man to whom she was betrothed.

The pair were at once surrounded by several hundred people, all talking at once, the father of the girl more furiously than all the rest. The intended groom disappeared. Finally an interpreter was secured, and Fiske proposed that the girl be sent to school for three years at his expense. The proposition was accepted, and at the end of the term he married her at the time he had intended taking a wife on the common sense plan.

RELIGIOUS THOUGHT.

Gems Gleaned From the Teachings of All Denominations.

God always goes beyond the expectation of his people in fulfilling his promises.—Rev. J. Henry Haslam, Baptist, Philadelphia.

The Great Tradition.

When you assist womanhood you assist the nation. Woman is the foundation of our lives She is the intermediary between man and all divinity.—Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, Congregationalist, Brooklyn.

A New Life.

What is needed is not a new theology, but a new life. The power furnishing that life is to be found in the conscious presence of God in our human lives.—Rev. Leonard A. Barrett, Methodist, Cleveland.

Winning of Men to God.

We can win men to a love of God, as they see him revealed to us, by sound reasoning charity, nobleness, unconsciousness of manner and geniality of spirit.—Rev. Dr. Walter Calley, Baptist, Jamaica Plains, Mass.

Real Victories.

The victories of the associations are the real victories of the church. Through the triumphs of many members the body is glorified and Jesus Christ, the head, is honored.—Rev. William Horace Day, Congregationalist, Los Angeles, Cal.

Church of Ideals.

Religion is the eternal ideal, the everlasting thought, the supreme and abiding love So the ideal church today must be a church of ideals, and it must make these ideals motive forces in the life of the individual and the life of society.—Rev. Caleb S. S. Dutton, Unitarian, Brooklyn.

Completeness of Life.

No life is complete in itself. Only through others do we reach the full measure of life's joy and perfection. We must have other lives to touch our own We must have other persons whom we may love and into whose souls we may pour our life.—Rev. Dr Robert Kent, Congregationalist, Brooklyn.

Salt Which Seasons All Life.

Religion is no longer a mere matter of ceremony, doctrine or even church going. It is the salt which seasons all life, the leaven which affects all conduct and the light which cheers all hearts, as in the thought of Jesus and Paul it was meant to do It is larger than any one sect, creed, party or church, and its permanent value lies in the inspiration it affords in a persistent search for God and the highest levels of daily life.—Rev. J. B. Clayton, Baptist, Washington.

Spiritual Resurrection.

Christ's cross no longer clings to his shoulders, but rests upon his heart His suffering will end only when sin ceases. The Christian is one who has experienced a spiritual resurrection Dormant divinity becomes dominant in him, and he is transformed into a Saviour of the world. He who shares Christ's life will also share his suffering There is an Easter of the soul. The latent Christ becomes a living Christ in a human heart. Thus the spiritual resurrection continues and completes Calvary.—Rev. G Wolcott Brooks, Congregationalist, Dorchester, Mass

Facing Death.

When we look upon death as a part of our Father's plan, as a birth in our evolution toward our destiny of godlikeness, then, instead of shrinking from death as from the brink of some horrible abyss into whose awful darkness we are forced to leap, we can approach death with light in our face, with outlook, with uplook, with glorious hope, even as we approach a gateway that opens on hinges of gold to let us out into the larger liberty of the universe into the magnificent citizenship of immortality.—Rev. Dr John Reid Shannon, Methodist Episcopal, Washington.

Our Influence.

Every man has an influence Contact with every life is either a trip to the mountains or a camp in the desert. All of life has its influence No action, whether foul or fair, is ever done but it leaves somewhere a record, written by fingers ghostly, as a blessing or a curse. This influence continues when we are gone. Long after we are dead and forgotten our influence lives on to do God's work or the devil's work in the world We can never recall our influence. Drop a piece of money to the bottom of the sea and bid it rise again to your hand More easily will it obey your command than will your influence of word or act come back to your side at your call. We are responsible for our influence. God holds a man accountable for every fire that the match of his influence has kindled.—Rev. Dr. W. B Wallace, Baptist, Cleveland, O.

Right With God.

To be right with God is the same in earth that it is in heaven, whatever and wherever heaven may be. This is what Jesus meant when he said to Peter, "Whatsoever ye shall bind on earth shall be bound in heaven." This is what we mean when we pray "Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven." Not that men or any man can dictate to God, but men who obey God will find that God responds alike in earth and in heaven. To live with men and for humanity as Jesus lived when on earth is the surest way to secure a "title clear to mansions in the skies." One who lives right with humanity is living right with the Christian personality whether he has learned to say Christ or not. When any one, gentile or Jew or Christian, loves all humanity as one must love in order to love God the Father with all the heart, to love the name of Jesus the Christ will surely come with proper instructing.—Rev A. J. Bailey, Reformed, Brooklyn.

Funeral of Henry Neale.

The funeral of Henry Neale, 67 years old, formerly of Stockdale, was held from the Roscoe M. E. church Sunday afternoon. Interment was in Mt. Tabor cemetery. Mr. Neale died on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. M. Blower at Trimble, Ohio, and the body was brought here later. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Blower and Mrs Ed Allen of McKean avenue, Charleroi, and one son, Arthur Neale of Crafton. He was a well-known miner of this section, having been employed at various mines. His son is a mine inspector of one of the Pennsylvania bituminous districts.

HE SPREAD OUT.

Advice the Roofer Got From His Boss In Apprentice Days.

The man was working on the side of a steeply sloping roof All of a sudden his foot slipped, and, with a groan, he began to slide down slowly toward the edge

As he slid he clutched with tense fingers at the tin, but it was smooth It offered him no hold and his speed gradually but surely increased.

As in a sitting posture, like a tobogganer, the man continued his deadly slide he began to pray in a loud, anguished voice.

Memory, as if in answer to his prayer, flashed across his brain the words: "Spread out."

The man instantly lay flat on his back, spreading arms and legs to their widest angle, making himself as much as possible like a starfish. And his speed at once decreased. The additional friction surface acted like a brake. A few feet from the edge of the roof he came to anchor.

"Help!" he then shouted.

But the slight movement of shouting acted like a push, and he slipped down a few inches more.

"Help!" And again he slid a little.

MISTAKES IN TITLES.

"Love's Discourses" Has Nothing to Do With Cupid's Pranks.

It is interesting to collect certain of the instances of mistakes in regard to the titles of books Thus the old farmer who asked for "Edgworth on Irish Bulls" got no doubt something he did not expect, and the dainty youth who applied for "Love's Discourses" did not really wish a volume of sermons by Christopher Love If application is made by messenger, mistakes of a different sort may occur An excitable boy once asked for Bishop Cocks and

AFTER SUFFERING ONE YEAR

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Milwaukee, Wis.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me a well woman, and I would like to tell the whole world of it. I suffered from female trouble and fearful pains in my back. I had the best doctors and they all decided that I had a tumor in addition to my female trouble, and advised an operation. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman and I have no more backache. I hope I can help others by telling them what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—MRS. EMMA LISE, 833 First St., Milwaukee, Wis.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women after all other means have failed, and that every such suffering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation, or giving up hope of recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health and her advice is free.

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH AT HOME IN PRICEDALE

Body Discovered by Woman Whose Husband Met Death in Much the Same Way.

WOODWORK CAUGHT FIRE

Tried to Come Down Stairs After Her Clothing Had Become Ignited.

When Mrs. Walter Sinsley of Pricedale went to the home of Mrs. David Muri, at 8 o'clock on Saturday evening, she opened the door to find the ghastly charred remains of Mrs. Muri lying at the foot of the stairs leading to the up-stairs part of the house. How long the body had laid there is not known, but apparently it had not been long.

The woodwork along the stairway was burned somewhat and there was still a smouldering fire there when Mrs. Sinsley went in. Apparently Mrs. Muri had been standing in front of an open fire in the room upstairs when her clothing ignited. She had evidently tried to get downstairs, that she might be able to extinguish the flames, but was unable to do so, and fell lifeless at the bottom of the stairs.

At the time of the accident there was no one in the house except Mrs. Muri. She has a family of grown up children, and her husband is a fire boss at Somers No. 2 mine at Pricedale.

Five months ago in the same house Mrs. Sinsley's husband was burned to death in much the same manner. The house is owned by Mrs. Sinsley.

WELSH MINISTER TELLS OF REVIVAL

Lecture at Baptist Church of Remarkable Experience in Wales.

The history of the great Welsh revival of 1905, '06 and '07 was told for the first time in Charleroi by one of the workers, at the First Baptist church last night, when Rev. Clifford Joshua, of Cardiffe, Wales lectured. The revival was started in a small prayer meeting by Rev. Seth Joshua, an uncle of the man who spoke here last night, and before it had ended there had been about 100,000 conversions.

The story of the revival as told last night by Rev. Joshua was remarkably impressive. He told of how Wales was set on fire by the wonderful wave of religion, and of how the places of amusement had to close down because of the lack of people to patronize them, while the churches were filled nearly all the time. Rev. Joshua preached in his home town of Cardiffe, and in other places. The revival started in a town not far distant from his home.

Miss Irene Ohleger of Pittsburg is visiting at the home of Mrs. Robert Coulter of Prospect avenue.

Constable Young Gets Three Years

Convicted of Involuntary Manslaughter and is Today Sentenced.

Constable John oung of Union township was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter in court Saturday for shooting and killing Andy Gashes, a foreigner at Huston Run last September. Young claims he went to make an arrest at the place, which was alleged to be a disorderly house, and that he shot in self-defense. The prosecution alleged that Young went there for the purpose of drinking and fired the shot in a brawl.

Constable Young was this afternoon sentenced by the court to three years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

TOTARO IS SENTENCED

Charleroi Man Must go to Workhouse for Eight Months.

Sam Totaro of Charleroi, charged with a serious crime on complaint of a seven-year-old girl was found guilty at court last week and was sentenced by Judge McIlvaine Saturday. He was directed to pay the costs, a fine of $1 and to undergo imprisonment in the work house for a period of eight months. The court said it was inclined to believe the verdict was right. The judge informed the defendant that he might consider himself lucky in not being convicted of the more serious charge, for had be been he might have been imprisoned for 15 year.

SOME CANDIDATES WORRY ABOUT THEIR COMPETITORS

Do Your Best, You May Win Competitive Ballot by One Subscription---Count on That Auto for Easter.

KEEP BUSY ON BEST OFFER OF CONTEST

Some of the candidates are worrying over what their competitors are doing in the way of securing votes. The contest manager cannot tell for he does not know; here, however, is a pertinent question. Dont' you think that your competitors are worrying equally as much over what you may have? The prizes are just as alluring to them and naturally every candidate is exerting themselves to be numbered among the winners. Do not be deceived by the apparently small vote of those behind you. Keep hustling and amass for yourself sufficient votes to be prepared for any surprise that may be sprung by some "dark horse."

How are you doing this afternoon?

Are you advancing or slipping to the rear in this great race?

Next week may start with a rush.

How will you fare?

With a gain in your standing?

Fine.

Every one will get votes from now on.

And everybody needs them.

For it's votes that win, and you can win if you have votes enough:

The present leaders may be the tail-enders when the great contest closes.

Your opponent, who may now stand away down in the lst, may have a fine pile of votes laid away. There are surprises in every contest, and there certainly will be surprises in this one. There is one candidate, a hustler, too, who has cast only five voting certificates; so be on the outlook and do not let some "dark horse" surprise you in the end.

Those forty thousand extra.

How many of the forty thousand extra ballots are you working for?

You are not going to stop with one, two or three are you?

And then those three competitive ballots, they are going to be awarded to the three turning in the most cash during this period ending Saturday night, Feb. 26, at 10 p. m. You want to get in all you possibly can, you may be fortunate enough to win the first capital ballot, good for one hundred thousand votes by one single subscription, or it may be your misfortune to lose by that one subscription that you could easily secured if you would have looked for it.

POSITIVELY THE BEST

Five days to get in on the BEST OFFER of the conest, forty thousand extra with every $25 turned in. Three competitive ballots, two offers in one.

PRESIDENT J. D. MOFFATT OCCUPIES LOCAL PULPIT SUNDAY AT TWO SERVICES

Dr. James D. Moffat, president of Washington and Jefferson college, preached two strong sermons at the Washington Avenue Presbyterian chuch Sunday, morning and evening. The morning sermon was on the text, "For He Gave His Only Begotten Son That Whosever Believeth on Him Should Not Perish, But Have Everlasting Life," following on the thought of what has been done for mankind in a spiritual way, and pointing out what humanity owes in return, from gratitude. In the evening his sermon was more along civic lines, his principal thought being of how the proper recognition of God would lead one into right relations with his fellow men.

At the close of each services pledges were taken for the building fund, the entire amount subscribed aggregating about $240,05.

Four Clubs Will Compose West Virginia Circuit in Newly Organized League.

The Pennsylvania and West Virginia league is no more. It was announced at Fairmont Saturday that the managers had decided to dissolve the union, Connellsville and Uniontown are out of it. It is said that Connellsville will play independent ball and is to be a member of an association that is to be formed in Western Pennsylvania.

Fairmont, Mannington, Grafton and Clarksburg will make up a four club union and be known as the West Virginia league.

VAUDEVILLE AT COYLE

Announcement is Made of Acts That Are to Appear First Week.

When the Coyle Theatre throws its doors open Monday afternoon, February 28, an epoch will have been marked in local theatricals as Charleroians will have their first opportunity of seeing really high class Independent vaudeville at popular prices. In fact it will be the first appearance of Independent vaudeville at any price and local interest is naturally at high mark.

When the announcement was first made that the Coyle Theatre was to be given over to the Independent forces very little credence was placed in it, but it now seems that the rumor has become an assured fact. William L. Batchelor, one of the traveling managers of the Polack circuit is expected here today to confer with and assist Ray Rush, the new lesee in the opening.

The opening bill includes some of the best known names in vaudeville and every assurance is given that the programs to follow will be of the same grade of excellance.

The Omega Trio, who are announced to head the opening bill are conceededly one of the laughing hits of vaudeville. The vehicle used by this well known act is a musical comedy sketch entitled 'Sweetsy's Finish" and the incidents leading up to the "finish" are said to be ludicorously funny. The Great Batelles, another high class act scheduled for the opening week, were recently imported by the Independants. The equilibristic work done by this team is said to eclipse anything ever attempted before. Harry Meridith Mason, the musical comedian who enjoyed the distinction of having two separate and distinct solo singing voices, will also appear the first half of the week as will also Miss Blanche Meade, who will introduce her celebrated collie dog Sparkle.

The program announced for the last half of the week is equally pretentious and includes the York-Herbert Trio, one of the most versatile trios of vaudevillians on the American stage; Austin Wash, known all over the world as the original rubber neck man, he having appeared in every civilized country on the face of the globe. Austin Walsh is recommended as a sure cure for the blues; Pearl Evans, the well known operatic star and the LaRose Brothers, grotesque trick house comedians, are also announced. Last but by no means least, comes the announcement that Arthur and Jeanette, the pantomimic pair, will also appear the opening week. The international reputation of this great act is so well known that encomiums would be superfluous. Sufficient to say that nothing has ever been seen in a local theatre to approach the remarkable performance of this talented pair.

If the opening bills can be taken as a criterion Charleroians will have an opportunity of witnessing two of the best vaudeville programs ever offered to local amusement goers.

The announced policy of the new management is strictly high class vaudeville at the popular price of ten cents with an entire change of bill every Monday and Thursday beginning Monday matinee, February 28. A special souvenir matinee for the ladies and children will be given every Saturday afternoon at 2:30. Three performances will be given daily, 2:30, 7:30 and 9 p. m.

Mine Inspector Cunningham Announces Test For Mine Foreman.

WILL BE APRIL 5, 6, AND 7

Many Fire Bosses Needed in This District—Westmoreland County Makes Request.

Mine Inspector F. W. Cunningham for the Twenty-first bituminous district has made an announcement of an examination for mine foreman's certificates, to be held in the Charleroi Savings and Trust company hall, on April 5, 6 and 7 The examinations will be conducted by Mr. Cunningham, Superintendent Harry C. Drum of Vesta No. 4 and Peter Crockett of Dunlevy, one of the most prominent mine foremen of this vicinity. Examinations for fire bosses will be held on April 8.

There are a number of mine foremen and fire bosses needed in the mines of the Twenty-first district, the demand for fire bosses being especially large. Some are needed in Westmoreland county, and Mine Inspector Cunningham has been requested to send some there, but has been unable to supply the demand. There are some qualified about Fayette City who are working on machines and do not care to leave this employment which affords better pay. There are some boozers employed at the present time who must go.

In an interview Mine Inspector Cunningham spoke of the good work that is being done by the Y. M. C. A. mining classes. Many foreigners are being prepared for positions as mine foreman and fire bosses.

The courts are now supporting legally the mine inspectors. When the inspectors began to strictly enforce the laws in Western Pennsylvania, the courts did not stand by them, but now mining offenders are given sentences in accordance with the enormity of their offense when brought before the tribunal. Washington county courts have been lending particularly good support.

Mrs. John Jenkins and son are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Conway of Seventh street.

No Bogies.

We are hearing much these days of business and capital being frightened over President Taft's policies, which are said to exercise a deterrent effect. These reports emenate for the most part from Wall Street, the great gambling centre of the United States. President Taft's ideas on some of the principles advocated by him may be summarized as follows:

TRUSTS—If the law is not consistent with present business methods, business must do must be made consistent with the law.

TARIFF—The Payne-Aldrich bill is a downward revision on necessities and the best tariff measure ever enacted in this country.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS—Such banks can be constutionally established If the Republican party does not accomplish this it must face charges of bad faith.

FEDERAL INCORPORATION—Save interstate business from State harassment and protect public through unified Federal control.

RAILROADS—Prevent watering of securities and empower commission to regulate rates for benefit of public.

INJUNCTIONS—Require that in Federal court injunction shall not be issued without full notice and hearing unless to prevent irreparable injury and in such case to extend only five days before hearing.

CONSERVATION—Re classify public lands accoring to their greatest utility and vest in the Executive power to dispose of coal, phosphate, oil and mineral lands and water power sites to prevent their monopoly by syndicates.

It is perhaps the enforcement of the trust laws and the postal savings bank act on which the financial interests balk. The trusts do not want to obey the law and be honest, and the banking interests do not want the people to have access to any savings institutions except what they may dictate themselves. If these policies hamper and "scare" business, the interests that are founded on such principles had better cease to do business.

A Divorce Remedy.

According to newspaper dispatches a recent action by a West Virginia judge will have a salutary effect on the divorce evil that is spreading with such startling rapidity over all the country. In granting a large number of divorces before his court this judge stipulated in each that neither of the parties were to re-marry. This is said to have caused great consternation, as an "affinity" on one side or the other was the cause of most of the actions being brought.

It is believed that if all the courts would adopt this policy that there would be as perceptible a falling off in the number of divorces as there is in the gain. To prevent re-marriage is to take all the "ginger" out of a divorce, and it would become as undesirable as a horse race without pool selling. Millionaries and stage beauties would then have to stick to the ones of their first choice, for, as the illustrious Dr. Johnson aptly remarks, "while marriage may have many pains, celibacy or single blessedness has no pleasures." The remedy for the divorce evil is in the hands of the courts.

First Principles.

With a view of sharpening and developing the intellectual faculties of his pupils, Superintendent Pentz has instituted a literary society in the sixth and seventh grades of the borough schools. This is the old-time idea of literary and oratorical training, and before the days of the Chautauqua plan and correspondence schools, figured widely among the country school districts. It was here that the budding genius of many [illegible] was developed, and hopes and aspirations stirred that were ever an incentive in after life.

In these strenuous commercial times intellectual recreation has been neglected. It is seldom now that groups of congenial persons meet in the industrial communities for the pure enjoyment and interchange of each other's conversation and ideas, such as used to be the case in the New England centers of education. In these centers when intellectual men and women met regularly to read and discuss the political, scientific, religious and literary topics of the age, the intellectual development of the whole world was stimulated and promoted, as was reflected in the after productions of the persons present at these interchanges of thought. Many of these gatherings had their inception in the school and college literary fraternities, and the public school societies can be conducted and developed in the same direction. In view of the numerous gatherings for ephemeral amusements and entertainments Prof. Pentz's literary society is of vital importance. It should meet with the hearty approval and encouragement of every school patron. It is a return to first principles in intellectual development.

THE DOCTOR'S QUESTION

Some Advice Against Harsh Purgatives and Physics.

A doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is, "Are your bowels regular?" He knows that 98 per cent of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver. This condition poisons the system, the waste matter and causes accumulation of gases which must be removed through the bowels before health can be restored.

Salts, ordinary pills and cathartics may be truly likened to dynamite. Through their harsh, irritating action they force a passage through the bowels, causing pain and damage to the delicate intestinal structure which weakens the whole system and at best any produces temporary relief. The repeated use of such treatments causes chronic irritation of the stomach and bowels, dries and hardens their tissues, deadens their nerves, stiffens their muscles and generally brings about an injurious habit which sometimes has almost, if not fatal results.

We have a pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of its great curative value that we promise to return the purchaser's money in every case where it fails to produce entire satisfaction. This remedy is called Rexall Orderlies. We urge you to try them at our entire risk

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy, they act quietly and have a soothing strengthening, healing, regulative influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, gripe, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoea or other annoying effects and they may be taken at any time without inconvenience.

Rexall Orderlies overcome the drugging habit and safely remedy constipation and associate ailments, whether acute or chronic, except in surgical cases. They are especially good for children, weak persons or old folks. Price, 36 tablets 25 cents and 12 tablets 10 cents. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Charleroi only at our store—The Rexall Store. John W. Carroll.

Brown was near the top step of the ladder adjusting a flag, when the ladder skidded, precipitating him to the floor. He was taken to the office of Dr. J. THE RUSSIAN MODEL

By EDMOND COMPTON.

(Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.)

Spencer Fiske at twenty-one, though the possessor of a fortune, did not propose to lead an idle life. He laid out a European trip for himself to last one year, at the end of which time he would return, spend three years in the study of the law, after which he would practice the profession for the rest of the period allotted him on earth The most practical part of his scheme was to marry at the time he began his work. He believed in marriage as necessary to a complete life and that it should be entered upon with one's judgment well in hand—not dazed by the glamour of the senses

Six months after forming his plan he found himself one summer morning in St. Petersburg dawdling through a picture gallery, when he came upon a painting the subject of which was a village festival in Russian rural life. The central figure was a girl apparently about fifteen, with beautiful blue eyes, light hair and a delicious smile on two lips nestling between dimples

Fiske gazed long on the scene, taking it in as a whole and in part, his eyes always returning to the central figure. He went to other rooms, but returned before leaving the gallery to gaze upon the laughing face of innocence. Nor was this all; he returned every day for a week—sometimes twice a day, each time to gaze upon the face that charmed him One day while thus engaged a man stepped up to him and said in French:

"You seem pleased with my work."

"Your work?"

"Yes; I painted it"

"Where did you find your model for the central figure?"

"In Siberia. I am a traveler as well as painter. I found her in a small village. She is the daughter of a peasant"

A week later Fiske was on a train bound for Siberia A desire to see the original of the festival scene had taken possession of him, and he saw no reason why it should not be gratified Reaching the village, he sought the girl and found her in a dooryard spinning. She had grown a year older than when the picture was painted, with a slight budding of her beauty Fiske knew only a few phrases of Russian, but they sufficed to convey to her the information that he had seen her face on canvas and had come to view the original.

However practical a young man may be, there is one thing about which he is usually stupidly impractical—a young girl's heart Fiske was insensible to the effect his statement was likely to produce. He was even more stupid than this He did not know that he had fallen in love with a pretty face. But he found it out all on a sudden, for the girl told him that he had arrived in time to see her married. There was in this wireless message something like the clutching of cold fingers about his heart. With his lips he told her that he was fortunate; with his eyes he told her that he had met with a sudden disappointment. Then she told him that the match had been arranged by her parents.

A few days later he went to view the ceremony He found the bride in a tent surrounded by her girl friends. On asking where was the groom he was told that he would soon appear, and it was further explained that as soon as the bride saw him she would run away The groom would follow and must catch her before he could be permitted to marry her. This was the custom in that part of Siberia.

Presently a young man was seen approaching. The girls told the bride that the groom was coming and, leaving the tent, she ran like a fawn to elude him. The man found himself tripped and balked at every turn Fiske in order to get a better view went up on to a rise in the ground The girl was giving her intended mate a hard run. The American looked on with a wildly throbbing pulse, and once when the lover was about to grasp the prize his heart stood still. With a quick turn she avoided her pursuer and came running toward the point where Fiske was standing As she passed him she looked at him What her eyes said no one except the two knew, but they must have said something of importance, for Fiske gave a quick turn advanced a few steps, stopped, then suddenly started after the beautiful fugitive

There was a clamor among the lookers-on, but the American did not hear it. The groom, seeing another chasing his bride, stopped a moment in wonder then went on as if a fury was spurring him. The girl looked back and, seeing herself doubly pursued, sped on as if on the wings of the wind. One would have thought she sought to elude them both. Fiske, being the fresher of the two, soon gained. Then when the girl saw that he led she lagged and in a few minutes more dropped into his arms.

Thus it was that Spencer Fiske, who had laid out a life plan in which marriage was to be entered upon with circumspection, found himself the possessor of a Russian peasant girl whom he had caught in a race with the man to whom she was betrothed.

The pair were at once surrounded by several hundred people, all talking at once, the father of the girl more furiously than all the rest. The intended groom disappeared. Finally an interpreter was secured, and Fiske proposed that the girl be sent to school for three years at his expense. The proposition was accepted, and at the end of the term he married her at the time he had intended taking a wife on the common sense plan.

RELIGIOUS THOUGHT.

Gems Gleaned From the Teachings of All Denominations.

God always goes beyond the expectation of his people in fulfilling his promises.—Rev. J. Henry Haslam, Baptist, Philadelphia.

The Great Tradition.

When you assist womanhood you assist the nation. Woman is the foundation of our lives. She is the intermediary between man and all divinity.—Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, Congregationalist, Brooklyn.

A New Life.

What is needed is not a new theology, but a new life. The power furnishing that life is to be found in the conscious presence of God in our human lives.—Rev. Leonard A. Barrett, Methodist, Cleveland.

Winning of Men to God.

We can win men to a love of God, as they see him revealed to us, by sound reasoning, charity, nobleness, unconsciousness of manner and geniality of spirit.—Rev. Dr. Walter Calley, Baptist, Jamaica Plains, Mass.

Real Victories.

The victories of the associations are the real victories of the church. Through the triumphs of many members the body is glorified and Jesus Christ, the head, is honored.—Rev. William Horace Day, Congregationalist, Los Angeles, Cal.

Church of Ideals.

Religion is the eternal ideal, the everlasting thought, the supreme and abiding love. So the ideal church today must be a church of ideals, and it must make these ideals motive forces in the life of the individual and the life of society.—Rev. Caleb S. S. Dutton, Unitarian, Brooklyn.

Completeness of Life.

No life is complete in itself. Only through others do we reach the full measure of life's joy and perfection. We must have other lives to touch our own. We must have other persons whom we may love and into whose souls we may pour our life.—Rev. Dr. Robert Kent, Congregationalist, Brooklyn.

Salt Which Seasons All Life.

Religion is no longer a mere matter of ceremony, doctrine or even churchgoing. It is the salt which seasons all life, the leaven which affects all conduct and the light which cheers all hearts, as in the thought of Jesus and Paul it was meant to do. It is larger than any one sect, creed, party or church, and its permanent value lies in the inspiration it affords in a persistent search for God and the highest levels of daily life.—Rev. J. B. Clayton, Baptist, Washington.

Spiritual Resurrection.

Christ's cross no longer clings to his shoulders, but rests upon his heart. His suffering will end only when sin ceases. The Christian is one who has experienced a spiritual resurrection. Dormant divinity becomes dominant in him, and he is transformed into a Saviour of the world. He who shares Christ's life will also share his suffering. There is an Easter of the soul. The latent Christ becomes a living Christ in a human heart. Thus the spiritual resurrection continues and completes Calvary.—Rev. G. Wolcott Brooks, Congregationalist, Dorchester, Mass.

Facing Death.

When we look upon death as a part of our Father's plan, as a birth in our evolution toward our destiny of godlikeness, then, instead of shrinking from death as from the brink of some horrible abyss into whose awful darkness we are forced to leap, we can approach death with light in our face, with outlook, with uplook, with glorious hope, even as we approach a gateway that opens on hinges of gold to let us out into the larger liberty of the universe into the magnificent citizenship of immortality.—Rev. Dr. John Reid Shannon, Methodist Episcopal, Washington.

Our Influence.

Every man has an influence. Contact with every life is either a trip to the mountains or a camp in the desert. All of life has its influence. No action, whether foul or fair, is ever done but it leaves somewhere a record, written by fingers ghostly, as a blessing or a curse. This influence continues when we are gone. Long after we are dead and forgotten our influence lives on to do God's work or the devil's work in the world. We can never recall our influence. Drop a piece of money to the bottom of the sea and bid it rise again to your hand. More easily will it obey your command than will your influence of word or act come back to your side at your call. We are responsible for our influence. God holds a man accountable for every fire that the match of his influence has kindled.—Rev. Dr. W. B. Wallace, Baptist, Cleveland, O.

Right With God.

To be right with God is the same in earth that it is in heaven, whatever and wherever heaven may be. This is what Jesus meant when he said to Peter, "Whatsoever ye shall bind on earth shall be bound in heaven." This is what we mean when we pray "Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven." Not that men or any man can dictate to God, but men who obey God will find that God responds alike in earth and in heaven. To live with men and for humanity as Jesus lived when on earth is the surest way to secure a "title clear to mansions in the skies." One who lives right with humanity is living right with the Christian personality whether he has learned to say Christ or not. When any one, gentile or Jew or Christian, loves all humanity as one must love in order to love God the Father with all the heart, to love the name of Jesus the Christ will surely come with proper instructing.—Rev. A. J. Bailey, Reformed, Brooklyn.

Funeral of Henry Neale.

The funeral of Henry Neale, 67 years old, formerly of Stockdale, was held from the Roscoe M. E. church Sunday afternoon. Interment was in Mt. Tabor cemetery. Mr. Neale died on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. M. Blower at Trimble, Ohio, and the body was brought here later. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Blower and Mrs. Ed. Allen of McKean avenue, Charleroi, and one son, Arthur Neale of Crafton. He was a well-known miner of this section, having been employed at various mines. His son is a mine inspector of one of the Pennsylvania bituminous districts.

HE SPREAD OUT.

Advice the Roofer Got From His Boss In Apprentice Days.

The man was working on the side of a steeply sloping roof. All of a sudden his foot slipped, and, with a groan, he began to slide down slowly toward the edge.

As he slid he clutched with tense fingers at the tin, but it was smooth. It offered him no hold, and his speed gradually but surely increased.

As in a sitting posture, like a tobogganer, the man continued his deadly slide he began to pray in a loud, anguished voice.

Memory, as if in answer to his prayer, flashed across his brain the words: "Spread out."

The man instantly lay flat on his back, spreading arms and legs to their widest angle, making himself as much as possible like a starfish. And his speed at once decreased. The additional friction surface acted like a brake. A few feet from the edge of the roof he came to anchor.

"Help!" he then shouted.

But the slight movement of shouting acted like a push, and he slipped down a few inches more.

"Help!" And again he slid a little.

MISTAKES IN TITLES.

"Love's Discourses" Has Nothing to Do With Cupid's Pranks.

It is interesting to collect certain of the instances of mistakes in regard to the titles of books. Thus the old farmer who asked for "Edgworth on Irish Bulls" got no doubt something he did not expect, and the dainty youth who applied for "Love's Discourses" did not really wish a volume of sermons by Christopher Love. If application is made by messenger, mistakes of a different sort may occur. An excitable boy once asked for Bishop Cocks and

AFTER SUFFERING ONE YEAR

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Milwaukee, Wis. — "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me a well woman, and I would like to tell the whole world of it. I suffered from female trouble and fearful pains in my back. I had the best doctors and they all decided that I had a tumor in addition to my female trouble, and advised an operation. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman and I have no more backache. I hope I can help others by telling them what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me." — MRS. EMMA LUSE, 508 First St., Milwaukee, Wis.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women after all other means have failed, and that every such suffering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation, or giving up hope of recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health and her advice is free.
